How To Save Money On Car Insurance

Having car insurance is required in almost every state, and is undeniably helpful in case of an accident even if you aren't required to have it. But, it can still be pricey.

Get the most bang for your car insurance buck with these shopping tips:

- Know what you need: Beyond your state's minimum requirements, think about what you really need coverage for. Generally, everyone should have liability and injury coverage. If you don't have the money to repair or replace your car after an accident, consider getting collision and comprehensive coverage as well, but if the value of your car is minimal, it may not be necessary.
- Compare prices: Rates vary across companies, so get quotes from a few before deciding (or use a site like thezebra.com, which does the hard work for you by comparing several insurance companies' rates at once).
- Increase the deductible: Doing so means the premium will drop. Of course, that means you'll pay more out of pocket for damages. Decide how much you could afford if you were in an accident.
- Ask about discounts: Discounts are commonly given for driving cars with safety features, being a good student, being married, serving in the military, and coupling car insurance with other types of insurance policies. Always inquire about what is available.
- Maintain a good driving record: Car accidents and moving violations increase your insurance rates, so avoid them at all costs.

On our team, Metropolitan Home Team, we teach clients how to take a, "Value-Driven Approach to Sell Real Estate." By treating your home as an investment – like a business with a stock price versus a home with a sale price - there are unique ways to manipulate the perceived value of any home on the market. Because maximum profit for a home seller cannot be guaranteed, it must be engineered. For a more in-depth discussion on this topic request a free copy of my book, by emailing me: Tim@FreeBook4CharityForward.com or visit the website.

Word of the Month...

Studies have shown your income and wealth are directly related to the size and depth of your vocabulary. Here is this month's word, so you can impress your friends (and maybe even fatten your wallet)...

erudite (er-yoo-dahyt) adjective

Meaning: Characterized by great knowledge; learned or scholarly

Sample Sentence: The student was an erudite, thoughtful person who had insightful questions.

Stop! When Not To Buy

Sometimes the day of the week can make all the difference in the price you pay for certain items. For example:

- Airline tickets are most expensive on the weekend. Wait until Wednesday to buy.
- If you order fish at a restaurant or purchase flowers on a Monday, they are probably four or five days old. Mid-week orders serve up the freshest fish and flowers.
- Car shoppers on Mondays and Tuesdays are considered need-based shoppers and won't receive as many incentives as weekend buyers. The last third of the month is the best time to buy for incentives, according to analysts.

Laugh A Little

Q: What did the buffalo say to his son when he left for college?

A: Bison.

Quotes To Live By...

"No one looks stupid when they're having fun."

—Amy Poehler

"If you retain nothing else, always remember the most important rule of beauty, which is: who cares?"

—Tina Fey

"If you would not be forgotten, as soon as you are dead and rotten, either write things worth reading or do things worth the writing."

—Benjamin Franklin

What To Do If Your Email Is Hacked

Despite your very best intentions at protecting your email account, you may receive a message from a friend letting you know your email is sending spam. That's a sign you've become a victim of hacking or computer hijacking. Take these steps to reclaim your email and ensure it doesn't happen again.

1. Change your password. Make sure you use a strong password (a mix of letters, numbers, and symbols).
2. Download and/or run anti-virus malware-removal software. There are numerous programs available; Norton (us.Norton.com) and McAfee (home.McAfee.com) are among the best known. Make sure you keep your anti-virus software updated to avoid future attacks.
3. Avoid clicking on scareware. If a pop-up claims your computer has been infected by a virus and offers to sell you corrective software, don't click on anything. Instead, disconnect your computer from the internet and run a full-system scan with the anti-virus program.

How To Keep A Clean House: A Guide For Pet Owners

Four-legged friends are part of the family, but wouldn't it be nice if they also did their part in keeping the house clean? Luckily, there's plenty you can do to keep fur, fluff, and dander at bay.

Contain the fur. Encourage pets to lay on old towels or sheets placed on the floor or furniture. Thoroughly and frequently vacuum. Use lint rollers to pick up stray hair at a moment's notice.

Keep paws clean. Before pets come in from outside, dip paws in room temperature water and dry them off.

Stay stain free. If a pet throws up or urinates on the floor, clean it up quickly. Blot stains, absorbing as much liquid as possible; do not rub. Apply a solution of 1/4 teaspoon of clear dishwashing liquid mixed with one cup of tepid water. Rinse by blotting as well.

Clean Your Keyboard!

Computer keyboards can hold more than 3,000 organisms per square inch. Yuck! Here's how to keep it clean:

1. Cut the power by unplugging the keyboard or removing the batteries.
2. Remove dust using a small soft-bristled dusting brush, a small hand-held vacuum cleaner, or a can of air.
3. Gently remove keys and vacuum particles stuck to them.
4. Dampen a cotton swab with rubbing alcohol or an electronics-friendly disinfectant cleaner and run in between and the tops and sides of the keys.

www.expensify.com – Helpful for tracking money spent in several different ways. Also creates expense reports for easy analysis.

finance.yahoo.com – Keep track of stocks and investments.

When To Second Guess Your Doctor

Skilled physicians and modern medicine can do wonders for your health, but it's also important to remember that you are the ultimate decision maker when it comes to caring for your body. While it's often a good idea to heed your doctor's advice, it's also important to listen to yourself. In these situations, the best medicine may be your own intuition.

Problem: Your doctor suggests a diagnosis or treatment and you don't feel completely confident about it.

Solution: Seek a second opinion. Sometimes someone who hasn't been invested in your particular medical situation will have a different idea on how to deal with your situation. Additionally, sometimes medical tests come back as false positives, and you reserve the right to be completely sure that what you are being told is an accurate representation of what your medical situation is.

Problem: Your doctor orders several screening tests "just to be sure."

Solution: While many tests can help pinpoint a medical malady, they can also lead to costly and unnecessary diagnostic testing. Ask what tests are specifically important for you to undergo and why. Check choosingwisely.org for information on what questions to ask in regard to specific medical situations.

Problem: Your doctor prescribes a myriad of pills.

Solution: If your physician hands you a stack of prescriptions, make sure you understand what each and every one does – and what the consequences could be of taking them together. You may have other ways to manage pain (like stretching or exercise), for instance, and find you don't need to take painkillers every day.

Real Estate Corner...

Q. I'm seeking financing to purchase a home. What questions should I ask a mortgage lender to get the best deal on a home loan?

A. Before you meet with the lender, learn important financing terms such as origination fee, discount points, and lock period. This way you'll be prepared to ask relevant questions. Here are some examples:

- Will I be charged an origination fee? If so, how much?
- Will I be charged separate discount points? If so, how much?
- Will I be charged any of these separate fees: processing, document preparation, underwriting, tax service, or flood certification?
- Will there be additional fees at closing?
- Is there a lock period with this loan? If so, how long?
- Are there any penalties if I pay off the note early?
- What is the interest rate I'll be charged, and is it fixed or variable?
- What term (length) of loan provides the best payment for my budget?

For definitions of these terms and more financing tips, ask for my Free Consumer Report called "7 Secrets For Saving Thousands When Financing Your Home." I'll send a copy right to you.
